

NFDA: AIM Mentor Program, Manufacturing Rebound Continues, & Job Growth Numbers

The NFDA has several news items to share:

1. NFDA, in partnership with Young Fastener Professionals association, has launched Advancing Individuals Through Mentoring (AIM) to help the fastener industry prepare the next generation of leaders. The program is looking for a few good mentors.
2. A report from The Wall Street Journal indicates manufacturing production rose for the second straight month, climbing 0.2 percent in February after rising 0.5 percent in January.
3. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that private sector employment in February increased by 230,000 jobs from January.

To read the full articles as reported by the NFDA, visit <http://www.nfda-fastener.org/>.